City opts for outsourced drainage deal

Outside bid. Chinese firm will construct new drainage pipes

RYAN TUMILTY
ryan.tumilty@metronews.ca

An $11-million contract the city awarded to a construction firm that plans to import concrete drainage pipes from China is raising alarms for Canadian industry.

The city tendered for the 1.3-kilometre drainage pipe in southeast Edmonton earlier this year and awarded a bid to the Shanghai Construction Group's Canadian arm.

The company will import the concrete pipes from China for the build, which, according to a memo Metro obtained, has prompted concerns from the Canadian Concrete Pipe and Precast Association and the Cement Association of Canada.

Gerry Mulhern, president of the Pipe and Precast Association, said they're concerned the pipe for this project will be made somewhere else.

"We're working with the city. We have some issues and we have been in regular communication with some engineers and others at the City of Edmonton," he said.

"We want the local producers in Alberta to provide the 1.3 kilometres of pipe for this project."

Chris Ward, the city's manager of drainage services, said the Shanghai Construction

Group's bid envisions using micro-tunnelling to install the pipe, which requires exact specification from the pipe.

"The design and the manufacturer of the pipe that's used with the micro-tunnelling has to be compatible with the machine," he said.

Ward said the bid wasn't the lowest, but in this instance price wasn't the city's only concern. "Price was 40 per cent of the evaluation and 60 per cent was based on the proposal and how they were going to construct it," he said.

Coun. Mike Nickel said he has serious quality control concerns about pipes that aren't made in Canada.

"If you don't have 110 per cent quality control you have problems," he said.

Quanto's Law

Harper introduces new legislation to protect police dogs

Prime Minister Stephen Harper was in Edmonton on Monday to meet with police canine units and to announce the introduction of new legislation dubbed Quanto's Law.

The proposed Justice for Animals in Service Act calls for tougher penalties for anyone who harms a service animal, including those working for police and the military.

Quanto was an Edmonton police dog stabbed to death while trying to apprehend a fleeing suspect last October.

"These service animals are not pets. They are important investments that police services and others make in animals that perform very specialized duties," Harper said at a photo opportunity.

"Tens of thousands of dollars of training go into animals like this and when they are attacked, as of course the late Quanto was, not only is that the loss of a considerable asset for a police service, it also is a wider attack on the police services that protect us."

The legislation, promised in the 2013 throne speech, proposes Criminal Code amendments to impose a minimum six-month jail sentence for anyone who kills a police dog.

The maximum sentence would be five years.

Quanto's killer, Paul Joseph Vukmanich, pleaded guilty earlier this year to animal cruelty and other offences. He was sentenced to 26 months in prison and banned from owning a pet for 25 years.

Man shot by cops was wanted for murder

Outside investigation. ASIRT takes over case

ryan.tumilty@metronews.ca

The man killed in a shootout with police Sunday night had warrants out for his arrest on second-degree murder charges, Metro has learned.

The Alberta Serious Incident Response Team (ASIRT) is investigating the incident, which left 24-year-old David Sandaker dead and an Edmonton Police tactical unit officer in hospital.

A warrant was sworn for Sandaker earlier this month in connection to the death of Michael Allan Hill, who was killed on April 26 at a west Edmonton apartment building.

ASIRT executive director Cliff Purvis declined to identify the deceased, but did offer condolences for everyone involved.

"We offer the sympathy and condolences to the friends and family of the deceased and we also wish the best for the male police officer that was injured in this incident," he said.

Purvis said ASIRT started its investigation early Monday morning and will interview about a dozen police officers

Officer involved

- ASIRT's mandate specifies that the team investigate all officer-involved shootings in the province.
- The team is also currently investigating the shooting in St. Paul on Friday night that left three officers injured and one man dead.

that were either involved or witnessed the event.

"We've had the complete co-operation of the Edmonton Police Service and we're confident our efforts will uncover the truth," he said.

Police Chief Rod Knecht addressed the shooting just after midnight on Monday and said the officer had eight years of service.

Knecht said he had visited the officer in hospital and he was doing as well as could be expected.

"Our member is undergoing a series of tests, but is coherent and heavily sedated for pain," he said.

Knecht said there was nothing out of the ordinary about the arrest.

"It was an arrest, an arrest that we do every day of the week several times and this one just went bad," he said.

Bike shop opening delayed due to lack of car parking

Old Strathcona. City bylaw means store needs five more parking spots

STEPHANIE DUBOIS

stephanie.dubois@metronews.ca

Staff and volunteers with an Old Strathcona bike shop have been left with spinning wheels after a city bylaw forced them to delay the store opening due to — ironically — car parking.

A place for people to fix, swap or talk about bikes, Bikeworks South officials (managed by the Edmonton Bicycle Commuters' Society or EBCS) were told they needed five more vehicle parking spots according to the city's bylaw as part of the development permit process.

"The city would be willing to give us a variance, but it costs us extra money and the city has to notify everyone within 60 metres that they're going to grant this variance and everyone within 60 metres gets two weeks to object," said Christopher Chan, executive director with EBCS.

Although no one objected to the parking variance, Chan said the two-week delay forced them to hold off on their grand opening, set to happen this weekend.

Bikeworks isn't the only one to face bylaw issues around parking, with Meat owners delaying their restaurant opening for over a year after they were also told they needed more parking.

"The restaurant was over one-and-a-half years in the Executive director with Edmonton Bicycle Commuters' Society, Christopher Chan, above, said the Bikeworks South location will open officially this weekend after a two-week delay. METRO works. The community rallied so hard for us," said Saylish Haas, co-owner of Meat.

City Coun. Ben Henderson says Old Strathcona is an area different than any other part of the city, and the parking bylaws should acknowledge that.

"It's hard to say for a lot of these business that you have to have parking for your business. It's not going to happen in an existing neighbourhood," he said.

K-Days bringing big acts to Edmonton stage

Cathy Kiss, vice-president of corporate relations with Northlands, helped announce the lineup for this summer's K-Days. STEPHANIE DUBOIS/METRO

Several Canadian acts will make their way onto the big stage at this summer's K-Days events, it was announced Monday.

Alyssa Reid, Our Lady Peace, Loverboy, Marianas Trench, the Village People, Gord Bamford and USS will all headline performances as part of the K-Days Koodonation Stage Headliner Series at Northlands.

"What we really try to do is try to find something for everyone," said Cathy Kiss, vice president of Corporate Relations with Northlands.

The concert series starts on July 18, with performers like Blake Shelton and the Road Hammers also making the list of headliners set to perform. The Summerland Tour has artists like Everclear, Soul Asylum and Eve 6 making its way to Alberta's capital city.

For those looking for more than music to their ears, the WWE Live SummerSlam Heatwave Tour will also roll through Edmonton on July 26, with WWE World Heavyweight Champion Daniel Bryan along with Randy Orton on the list of wrestlers.

Midway rides, as well as live thoroughbred races, will also be part of the annual tradition. The infamous K-Days food up for grabs has

Grass clippings. City asks residents to 'go bagless'

Mayor Don Iveson added lawn mower to his resume Monday, as the city launched a campaign to have more Edmontonians "go bagless."

Iveson kicked off the campaign that encourages Edmontonians to leave their grass clippings on the lawn in order to keep them out of the landfill.

"It's going to be a lot less work for you to have to schlep those bags out to the back lane for collection, but it's also a lot easier for the city," he said.

According to the city grass clippings make up roughly half of the waste sent to landfills during the summer months.

"It saves the whole city time and energy and money if you can grass-cycle," he said.

Iveson said the city has always had strong support from residents for recycling and other waste reduction measures and believes people will step up to this challenge as well.

"We're just asking for Edmontonians, like they have before, to take it upon themselves to show a little bit of leadership."

The program is part of the city's goal to keep 90 per cent of household waste out of landfills. RYAN TUMILTY/METRO

Adults get a 2nd shot at childhood game

Manhunt Wednesdays.

Edmontonians test their hiding, running and jumping skills

LEAH GERMAIN
leah.germain@metronews.ca

Hide and seek isn't for the young anymore, as Edmonton's young at heart meet once a week to play a grown-up version of the childhood classic.

Local artist Adam Waldron-

Blain introduced Manhunt Edmonton to the city in 2005 after hearing about the game from a Toronto team, and has watched it grow over the last nine years.

Offering participants the chance to test their running, hiding and extreme jumping skills, Waldron-Blain said the appeal for the grown-up version varies from person to person, but ultimately gives folks a chance to play a game that was a part of their childhood.

"When you're grown up you have a chance to do it right," he said. "In a very simple way, manhunt is about re-evaluating the space around you.... After you play a game you start looking at spots differently," Waldron-Blain added.

Ranging from 10 to 100 participants per night, Edmonton's local manhunt meets every Wednesday and kicks off with players introducing themselves by a special code name.

"Then we do a random elimination," Waldron-Blain said. "When you get eliminated you're not it and then you can run off to the boundaries, which is usually four blocks."

The last person left after elimination turns into the man-hunter for the night, which lasts about an hour. Once a player is tagged, they're "brain-washed" to hunt out the rest of the hiders.

"The longer you last hiding, or free, the more people who are coming for you. That's part of the excitement. It's kind of terrifying," Waldron-Blain added.

Worst-case scenario for many conservative Eurovision fans

Drag queen. European opinion divided after Austrian victory at music competition

It's the beard that divided a continent. The victory of whiskered drag queen Conchita Wurst in the Eurovision Song Contest had celebrities from Nigella Lawson to Russell Brand posting bearded selfies on the Internet in tribute — and Russian men snapping clean-shaven pictures in protest.

For millions of viewers, the annual Eurovision show is a cheesy music competition renowned for its camp, kitsch and electro beats. But the nation-based contest is also a potent mix of patriotism and politics in bubblegum wrapping.

Wurst's win has exposed a divide between Europe's progressives and conservatives that British tabloid The Sun

cheekily described Monday as the "Furred World War."

The statuesque brunette with the soaring voice of a diva and a full dark beard called her first-place finish in Saturday's contest a victory for tolerance and respect. Austrian President Heinz Fischer said it was "not just a victory for Austria, but above all for diversity and tolerance in Europe.”

But Russian Deputy Prime Minister Dmitry Rogozin tweeted that Eurovision had shown

the true face of European integration: “a bearded girl.” On social media, a variety of Russian men posted shaving-foam selfies alongside slogans such as “Get shaved, don’t be like a woman!”

Pro-Kremlin legislator Olga Batalina — deputy head of the family and maternity issues committee of the lower house of Russia's parliament — said Wurst's victory showed "it's not enough to have a talent and a good voice to win Eurovision; you also need to reject your nature, identity and traditions." She chalked the win up to "aggressive and persistent" gay propaganda.

That may sound like a lot of rhetoric over a talent show, but Eurovision has always been more than a simple singing contest. Founded in 1956, the competition pits European nations against one another in pursuit of pop music glory.

But it is more generally loved, and mocked, for its

Not just a song contest

Politics, both personal and international, has often intruded on Eurovision.

- Transsexual Israeli singer Dana International sparked protests by ultra-Orthodox Jews in her homeland in 1998 but went on to win.
- Georgia pulled out in 2009 after its song We Don't Wanna Put In — a dig at Russian leader Vladimir Putin — was judged excessively political.

parade of cheesy tunes from quirky performers. The live telecast is watched by some 180 million people and has a particularly strong gay following. It also faces perennial accusations of regional block-voting and geopolitical games.

East Ukraine: Autonomy declared by pro-Russians

Pro-Moscow insurgents in eastern Ukraine declared independence Monday and sought to join Russia, undermining Ukraine's May 25 presidential election, strengthening the Kremlin's hand and putting pressure on Kyiv to hold talks with the separatists.

Russia signalled it has no intention of subsuming eastern Ukraine the way it annexed Crimea in March. Instead, Moscow is pushing to include eastern regions in negotiations on Ukraine's future — suggesting that Russia prefers a political, not military, solution to its worst standoff with the West since the Cold War.

Such talks are central to a potential path toward peace outlined Monday by the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe. The plan laid out by Swiss President Didier Burkhalter calls on all sides to refrain from violence and urges immediate amnesty, talks on decentralization and the status of the Russian language.

That's a key complaint of the armed insurgents who have seized power in eastern regions and clashed with government troops and police. But it's up to the Ukrainian government to take the next step.

Acting Prime Minister Arseniy Yatsenyuk pledged Monday to hold talks with those in Ukraine's east. But he gave no specifics and did not address Sunday's vote or the declarations of independence by the Donetsk and Luhansk regions.

With a national presidential election scheduled in 13 days, the regions of Donetsk and Luhansk declared independence Monday, and those in Donetsk even asked to join neighbouring Russia. The sprawling areas along Russia's border, home to about 6.6 million people, form Ukraine's industrial heartland.

The interim government in Kyiv had been hoping the presidential vote would unify the country behind a new, democratically chosen leadership. Ukraine's crisis could grow worse if regions start rejecting the presidential vote. Dozens have been reported killed since Ukrainian forces began trying to retake some eastern cities.

NYPD. Police to stop use of condoms as evidence in prostitution cases

The New York Police Department will no longer confiscate unused condoms from suspected sex workers to be used as evidence of prostitution, ending a long-standing practice that had been criticized by civil rights groups for undermining efforts to combat AIDS and other sexually transmitted infections.

Under the new policy announced Monday, officers may continue to seize condoms as evidence in sex-trafficking and promotion of prostitution cases, but they will not use them in support of prostitution cases. Critics had said the previous policy amounted to police harassment.

"The NYPD heard from community health advocates and took a serious look at making changes to our current policy as it relates to our broader public safety mission," Police Commissioner William Bratton said.

For decades, police in New York and elsewhere had confiscated condoms from sex work suspects ostensibly for them to be used as evidence in criminal trials.

Civil rights groups and advocates for sex workers and gay, lesbian and transgender young people commended the new policy, but want a ban on the use of condoms as evidence in sex trafficking and promotion of prostitution cases too. A 2010 study by the city's Department of Health surveyed more than 60 sex workers and found that more than half had condoms confiscated by police. Nearly a third said they had at times not carried condoms because they feared getting into trouble.

Psychiatrist: Anxiety may have led to killing

Pretoria. Oscar Pistorius is facing murder charges in the death of girlfriend Reeva Steenkamp

Oscar Pistorius has an anxiety disorder that may have contributed to the fatal shooting of his girlfriend, an expert testified at his murder trial Monday, prompting the chief prosecutor to say the double-amputee Olympian should be placed under psychiatric observation.

The judge has not yet ruled on prosecutor Gerrie Nel's application that the court consider a period of mental evaluation for the runner.

Dr. Merryl Vorster, a psychiatrist called by the defence, testified that a series of events in Pistorius' turbulent life, including the amputation of his lower legs as a baby, his parents' divorce, his late mother's habit of sleeping with a gun under her pillow and his own fear of violent crime contributed to his "increasing stress."

Vorster said Pistorius' anxiety and his physical disability may have caused him to act differently from other people when he shot four times through a toilet stall door, killing girlfriend Reeva Steenkamp.

Pistorius, 27, claims he mistook Steenkamp for an intruder, but prosecutors say he killed her after an argument and shot in anger, not fear.

Pistorius' chief lawyer Barry Roux said at the start of defence-led testimony that the double amputee's vulnerability and disability was at the centre of his case. But prosecutor Nel questioned whether Pistorius was merely trying one of a number of defences for shooting his girlfriend.

Girls won't be freed until fighters are released: Boko Haram leader

Nigeria. Leader makes prisoner-swap demand in video that may show first evidence of kidnapped schoolgirls

A Nigerian Islamic extremist leader says nearly 300 abducted schoolgirls will not be seen again until the government frees his detained fighters.

A new video from Nigeria's Boko Haram terrorist network received Monday purports to show some of the girls and young women chanting Quranic verses in Arabic. The barefoot girls look frightened and sad and sit huddled together wearing grey Muslim veils. Some Christians among them say they have converted to Islam.

of the girls and young women since more than 300 were kidnapped from a northeastern school on April 15.

"I swear to almighty Allah you will not see them again until you release our people that you have captured," leader Abubakar Shekau says as he cradles an assault rifle in the video.

It is not known how many suspected Boko Haram members are detained by security forces. Hundreds were killed by soldiers last month when Shekau's fighters stormed the military's main northeastern barracks in Maiduguri city, the birthplace of Boko Haram.

In the video, two of the girls are brought to the front and questioned by an unseen man. "Why have you become a Muslim?" the man asks one.

"The reason why I became a Muslim is because the path we are on is not the right path," the girl says, nervously turning her body from side to side, her eyes darting off to the side. "We should enter the right path so that Allah will be happy with us."

Families have said that most of the girls abducted are Christians.

Fifty-three schoolgirls have escaped by themselves and 276 are missing, police say.

Pregnant drivers. Risk of car crashes jumps during 2nd trimester, study finds

Pregnant women who drive appear to be at a significantly higher risk of being in a serious car crash during the second trimester of their pregnancies, a new study suggests.

The researchers, who believe fatigue and sleep disruption are probably responsible, say the increase in risk is similar to what is seen for people who suffer from sleep apnea.

The authors of the study, published in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, said they aren't trying to suggest pregnant women stop driving. In fact, they noted that men of a similar age have even higher rates of accidents than pregnant women do, so the answer is not turning over the keys to one's husband, or male partner.

But pregnant women should be aware of the elevated risk, and ensure that they drive with more caution, Redelmeier said: Stop at every stop sign, use indicator lights to signal turns, wear seat belts at all times.

A Manitoba hotel owner says he has been forced to lay off more than 50 employees, close his hotel and put it up for sale because Ottawa owes him $3 million in unpaid bills.

Mike Bruneau, who owns Misty Lake Lodge in Gimli, says he's owed the money for feeding and housing dozens of aboriginal people who were displaced by the 2011 flood. Bruneau was paid a portion of the cash but says he is owed more. Bruneau says he also needs to be reimbursed for damage to the hotel and interest on the debt.

"They were in my hotel for 2 1/2 years," he said Monday. "(The rooms) aren't rentable. I wanted them to pay my bills, so I could fix the hotel up. They didn't pay my bills, so I couldn't go back to doing weddings and conferences, the kind of stuff I used to do."

Bruneau said he got an $8-million offer to sell four years ago. He isn't expecting to get that much now.

The Manitoba Association of Native Firefighters had been given millions to care for evacuees, but Bruneau said the group stopped paying him when he accused it publicly of squandering money.

Aboriginal Affairs and Northern Development Canada is auditing the association's handling of the prolonged evacuation and the Red Cross is now responsible for the long-term care of about 2,000 evacuees.

Final vote cast in India's election

Results expected Friday.

After six weeks of voting, exit polls show Hindu nationalist candidate leading the way

Millions of Indian voters wrapped up the country's mammoth national election Monday, and exit polls indicated that Hindu nationalist opposition leader Narendra Modi was the front-runner for prime minister.

With 814 million eligible voters, India voted in phases over six weeks, with results expected Friday.

The main Hindu opposition Bharatiya Janata Party went into the election with strong momentum. Pre-election polls suggested there was deep dissatisfaction with the governing Congress party's 10 years in power.

United Nations report slams Canada's record on First Nations

A UN rapporteur is at a loss to explain how a prosperous and sophisticated country like Canada has come to have on its hands a First Nations human-rights problem that has reached "crisis proportions."

James Anaya's report picks a fight with the federal government on several fronts — education, energy projects on reserves and missing or murdered aboriginal women, to name a few — and is sure to amplify tensions between Canada's First Nations and a federal government they so thoroughly distrust.

"It is difficult to reconcile Canada's well-developed legal framework and general prosperity with the human-rights problems faced by indigenous peoples in Canada that have reached crisis proportions in many respects," writes Anaya, the UN's special rapporteur on indigenous rights.

"Moreover, the relationship between the federal government and indigenous peoples is strained, perhaps even more so than when the previous special rapporteur visited Canada in 2003."

Musi-Café owner Yannick Gagné is rebuilding his popular bar in Lac-Mégantic, Que., 10 money, keys and papers signed by a number of deceased employees that was recovered

Lac-Mégantic to rebuild a

'It's not just a building anymore.' Quebec town plans to rebuild the Musi-Café, destroyed in 2013's train disaster, as partly a gathering place, partly a memorial construction of the Musi-Café, a popular local bar — is both emotional and practical.

Practical because the destruction of the rallying point for local revellers, karaoke singers and visiting musical acts has left Lac-Mégantic without a nightlife or place to celebrate moments of joy.

It is charged with emotion because the bar that was located next to the train tracks on the main downtown strip was where about 30 of the 47 victims were enjoying drinks, music and friends when the train flipped, caught fire and exploded.

Just a few things were recovered from the tragedy: a German beer sign, a few beer kegs, a metal drink shaker and a patio umbrella that had been stored in the bar's basement. But the most touching item bar owner Yannick Gagné now has in his possession is the charred steel box that held cash, coins, keys and deposit slips signed by staff, three of whom died that night.

Time has passed in Lac-Mégantic, but the anxiety has not.

Ten months after the train disaster that killed 47 people in the eastern Quebec town, residents should be gearing up for a bustling tourist season.

Instead, they are still finding their feet after the tragedy and hoping that a construction project begun last week will return some spirit to a town that has known only ghosts since July 6, 2013, when a runaway train loaded with crude oil jumped the tracks and wiped out a swath of the downtown.

months after the deadly train explosion. On display will be the cash box containing in mid-April from the site of the crash. COURTESY JACQUES DOSTIE

attempting little hope

It was thought to have been incinerated in the fires, but was discovered two months ago in debris around the town's former library, down the street from the Musi-Café's former site.

"They put it aside and when they opened it three weeks or one month later, they realized there was too much money for it to belong to the library and there were special objects inside like keys, because I always kept the keys inside," Gagné told Torstar News Service on Monday.

These items, along with some floor planks and tiles that survived the inferno, will make up part of a memorial that will adorn the new bar when it opens in August or September. It will honour all the townsfolk who died that morning, but especially the many whose last moments were inside the bar.

The new Musi-Café will be just 6,000 square feet of commercial space located at the end of Lac-Mégantic's relocat-

"It's not just a building anymore," he said. "It's a spirit."

One of Prime Minister Stephen Harper's former aides faces more legal trouble.

The Mounties have charged Bruce Carson with three counts of prohibited lobbying and one count of influence peddling.

"These charges are the result of his lobbying activities on behalf of the Canada School of Energy and Environment and on behalf of the Energy Policy Institute of Canada," RCMP spokeswoman Cpl. Lucy Shorey said in an email.

Carson was previously charged with one count of fraud on the government for illegally lobbying the federal government on behalf of a company that employed his girlfriend. THE CANADIAN PRESS

eBay whale gets positively fed back into the sea

The carcass of a sperm whale that a Newfoundland town tried to sell on eBay has been washed out to sea.

A combination of strong winds and a high tide refloated the remains late Saturday near Cape

St. George.

Mayor Peter Fenwick says the 12-metre carcass was last seen floating away in an easterly direction.

Last week, the town listed the beached carcass on the online auction site, but eBay officials pulled the auction, saying it violated its policies regarding the sale of animal parts.

Ads. Frozen food makers hope to warm consumers up to products with campaign

Frozen food makers plan to launch their first national TV ad in defence of their products on Tuesday as the category fights to boost slipping sales.

The ad will include the tag line "Frozen: How Fresh Stays Fresh" and is intended to address negative misconceptions people have about frozen foods.

It's part of a marketing campaign being funded by the American Frozen Food Institute, an industry group that represents companies including Nestle, which makes Hot Pockets and Lean Cuisine, and Con-Agra, which makes Healthy Choice and Marie Callender's.

The push comes as frozen food sales have been hurt by a move toward food people feel are fresh or natural. Although frozen vegetables are often touted as being just as wholesome as their fresh counterparts, frozen meals and snacks are widely seen as being full of sodium and preservatives, or lacking in the taste department.

Between 2009 and last year, U.S. sales of frozen meals are down 3 per cent at $8.92 billion US, according to Euromonitor International. And this year, the market researcher is forecasting a decline of an additional 2 per cent.

The Associated Press reported on the American Frozen Food Institute's plans for the campaign last month.

In a phone interview on Monday, Kraig Naasz, president of the American Frozen Food Institute, disclosed that the group plans to invest as much as $90 million in the campaign over three years.

"This is a long-term strategy. The primary purpose is to enter into a dialogue with consumers," he said.

Prosthetic hands get a modern update

DEKA Arm System.

The latest twist on the 1912 invention lets amputees open envelopes, pick up eggs

Modern life is quickly becoming stranger, and for amputees, better than science fiction.

Take the revolutionary new prosthetic limb that looks, and is, completely cutting edge.

The limb is called the DEKA Arm System — and it was developed in New Hampshire by serial inventor/genius Dean Kamen and his team. The thing even has fingernails.

Technology for prosthetic hands hasn't had too many radical advances. Until now, most have been variations on the theme of the 1912 invention of the clasping hook prosthetic.

The DEKA represents a mind-boggling advancement.

Wireless sensors placed under the foot of the user allow them to control six different grips. And that means, as you'll see in the demonstration (scan the Metro AR photo to see), that a user with one hand can now perform previously difficult tasks like opening an envelope.

The impetus for the invention was a DARPA (Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency) initiative called The Revolutionizing Prosthetics Program. Its goal is "so service members with arm loss may one day have the option of choosing to return to duty. Additionally, the dexterous hand capabilities developed under the program have already been applied to small robotic systems used in manipulating unexploded ordnance, thus keeping soldiers out of situations that have led to limb loss."

The new system has just been approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, meaning that it can be manufactured, sold — and start being of use to amputees. It's powerful enough to hold a hand drill, while sensitive enough to allow a user to pick up items as delicate as eggs.

Though a huge improve-

In this video screenshot, Fred Downs shows how he can use different grips on the DEKA Arm System to open and handle mail. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration approved the system for commercialization last week. SCREENGRAB ment from previous prosthetics, the system won't replace the complexity and sensitivity of a human hand.

But remember — this is just the first generation.

For Sale. Startups hope to start up, grow and find a buyer within 3 years

Canadian startups are eagerly hanging "For Sale" signs on their businesses and hoping to be snapped up quickly through simple acquisitions, according to an annual survey of emerging companies.

The annual survey of 150 chief executives by PwC found that 78 per cent of emerging companies are looking at some sort of exit strategy, with nearly two-thirds eyeing an acquisition — up from last year's 44 per cent.

And they're not just looking for an exit strategy; they want a quick way out, as 40 per cent said they plan to leave the market in between one and three years.

That stems in part from the belief that one to three years is the general life cycle of a startup, and they should be selling by then. THE CANADIAN PRESS

ME TARZAN, YOU BREADWINNER

Earlier this month, Fox News hosted a discussion about whether it's problematic for a woman to make more money than her husband. Apparently, segment host Clayton Morris believes female breadwinners are causing serious marital issues among heterosexual couples.

"Isn't there some sort of biological, innate need for men to be the caveman?" he asked a panel of guests.

A genuinely concerned Morris then went on to argue that men should be responsible for "going out and bringing home the dinner" and it is emasculating for a husband to be out-earned by his wife.

I understand that no one has ever accused the talking heads at Fox of being overly feminist, but this news segment seemed particularly chauvinistic, even for them.

It's hard to believe that people are still clinging to these outdated gender roles. Hosting a televised debate about

SHE SAYS
Jessica Napier
metronews.ca

how "Alpha women" are undermining their husbands and contributing to some sort of imagined societal breakdown seems like something that might have happened in 1954, not 2014.

Are we really supposed to believe that modern men are so fragile and insecure? A 2013 Pew Research Study found that almost a quarter of married mothers in the U.S. earn more than their husbands, which means there must be a lot of bruised male egos out there, according to Morris's caveman logic.

In my opinion, women who are the primary income earners in a relationship are about as "problematic" as husbands who change diapers or do the laundry.

Children are incredibly draining on all of your resources — time, energy and definitely money — and nobody should be criticized for contributing to the family finances.

A man's self-esteem might be closely linked to his career, but so is mine.

The women I know are far more likely to find self-fulfillment by succeeding in a lucrative career than perfecting their ability to bake a cake or be a "good wife" in the traditional, Fox News kind of way.

Raising a family is a joint effort. Married partners are playing on the same team, and men and women shouldn't be competing over their paycheques.

There are so many different types of households, and expecting the partner with the most testosterone to fulfil the role of "provider" at all times is a completely archaic notion.

Female breadwinners aren't an issue; sexist news anchors who broadcast their patriarchal opinions and disapprove of women with high-paying jobs are the real problem in this scenario.

Men should be proud to be coupled up with a successful partner, not worrying about how their wife's salary impacts their own masculine identity.

WE ACT: CANADA DOES GOOD

Stories from hospital hallways

Each month, we profile a Canadian who's up to a whole lot of good. Here's one we'd like you to meet:

Who: Jackie Kinder, community volunteer with Childcan, London, Ont.

What: Fundraising and organizing community events to help support the families of young people diagnosed with cancer.

Why: To provide the families with the financial and community support they need to focus on their children.

Jackie met 14-year-old Stephanie Simmons, a three-time brain-tumour survivor, when she began volunteering with Childcan. "She's my hero," says Jackie. "Knowing what she went through and knowing that through it all she was so brave, so concerned with helping other children, that's what hooked me." Since then, Jackie has taken a leading role fundraising for Childcan, participating in the Inside Ride cycling event and the National Day of Action for kids with cancer at the CN Tower.

What motivated you to get involved with families dealing with childhood cancer?

"You don't leave a child alone in the hospital — you're there for the long

We bring them into the Childcan family, and I fundraise to help with gas, cafeteria vouchers, parking and credit-card bills. The financial hardships are major — but help is always there."

You've spent your life working with young people, first as a teacher and now as a volunteer. What advice do you have for them?

"Take the time to find and develop your passion for a cause. I've met some wonderful volunteers, and they are all happier for the work they do. They've learned that happiness doesn't mean all that you own — it's about giving back to other people. It's something I learned from Stephanie: it's the feeling you get doing something worthwhile for other people in your community that keeps us going."

Every year, the city of Hamburg celebrates its harbour's birthday with a massive bash along the Elbe. Drawing more than one million people, the harbour party features vessel parades, something called a tugboat ballet and the much more humble-sounding dragon boat race.

But this is a party, after all. And what party is complete without music? Enter the enormous cruise ship MSC Magnifica — launched from this very harbour in 2010 — and its bone-rattling, horn-fired rendition of Seven Nation Army.

St. Vincent wants all of your mind this summer

Indie musical landscape.

Singer Annie Clark comes into her own, creating a live show unlike any other St. Vincent concert

HEALY

Metro World News in Boston

Just because St. Vincent's summer itinerary is packed with more than a dozen festival dates on four continents doesn't mean that Annie Clark is scaling back the theatrics of the St. Vincent concert experience.

The singer and guitarist will still force herself down a giant set of pink stairs, writhe around against a storm of strobe lights and eventually command the procession, purposefully poised like a cross, from an oversized pink throne.

"We've worked really hard on this strange fever dream of a show, bringing it to life," says Clark, "so it's important that people get the whole experience, even if it's at a festival."

That "strange fever dream of a show," along with the self-titled fifth St. Vincent album, may be the most definitive statement from any artist this year. From Clark's fat guitar leads to her strange and simple lyrics — any of which can Wbe pulled out to illustrate what St. Vincent is all about in 2014 — it feels like the artist has truly discovered her identity.

St. Vincent performs at the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony for Nirvana. LARRY BUSACCA/GETTY IMAGES

"I'll always be evolving and be restless and wanting to move violently into the future," says Clark of arriving at something that could be considered iconic, "but I was reading Miles Davis's autobiography and it was saying how the hardest thing about being a musician is to sound like yourself. I can hear one note of Miles or Coltrane and know that it's them and it's the world that they have painstakingly created to be unmistakable. I just thought that this record for me was something where I had successfully created a landscape that was my own."

This landscape includes Clark's stylized lavender/gray old lady hair, of which she says: "Everyone is really obsessed with being young and youth culture and this sort of erroneous idea that things are the best when you are young, and I am young, but I wanted to see what it would look like to go in the opposite direction." And this landscape also includes conscious choreography in the live show, the likes of which hasn't been seen on a St. Vincent tour before. Clark says she was inspired by doing an album and tour with David Byrne, whose live show included an eight-piece brass band moving around the stage and creating what Clark says was "this whole other level of drama and whimsy and symbolic subconscious meaning that the audience can pick up on."

"I wanted to create a real experience for people, especially in this day and age where we are kind of obsessed with capturing moments at the expense of living them," she says. "I wanted to encourage people as much as possible to be present and be so engrossed in the show that they are not tempted to check their text messages."

SNL musical guest

St. Vincent will be the musical guest on the season finale of Saturday Night Live this weekend.

Her

Director. Spike Jonze

Stars. Joaquin Phoenix, Scarlett Johansson

Most sci-fi films make a human/machine love connection seem perverse or at least far out, yet Spike Jonze's Her treats it as a mild novelty.

Set about five years in the future in techno-fabulous L.A., it's nominally a simple sci-fi romance of a man, played by Joaquin Phoenix, falling in love with a machine, voiced by Scarlett Johansson.

There's much more going on than this, of course, as you'd expect from the director who brought us the layered head-spinners Being John Malkovich, Adaptation and Where the Wild Things Are. The film's subliminal message is that the human touch is in danger of being replaced with an "on" switch.

Phoenix and Johansson make for a completely convincing couple. Jonze sidesteps sniggers, shivers and convention, putting in plot twists that are at once shocking and completely logical.

He's really interested in the difficulty of making and maintaining emotional and intellectual ties, no matter whether the heart is made of flesh or silicon.

Extras include several making-of featurettes.

Angel Olsen gets personal

Lonely love songs. The emotionally charged singer relies only on herself as a songwriter, and the result is beautifully intimate

PAT HEALY

Metro World News in Boston

When Angel Olsen was working on her second studio album, Burn Your Fire For No Witness, which came out in February, she says she frequently found herself adhering to the whole For No Witness idea.

"It was all written in the same period, so whenever inspiration came to me, I would stop what I was doing because I could, because I was working for myself," she says. "So it was like, 'I can go home now — instead of this party — and write all of these things!'"

Wait, so she would literally leave parties?

"I remember weird ex-

Angel Olsen's Burn Your Fire For No Witness is out now on Jagjaguwar. CONTRIBUTED amples," she confirms. "I wrote Iota when it was the middle of summer and I was having kind of a weird day, and my friends had this family picnic at the park and I left. At the time, we lived in Chicago and we had access to this place that had a rooftop. I went up there and had a beer and a guitar. It was just me by myself and I recorded [it] on my phone."

The resulting album includes the sort of confessional musings that might occur in conversation between close friends a few beers deep. Her vocals and lyrics are equally intimate.

"Just listening back to stuff of mine, it's like, 'OK, I guess I'm pretty obsessed with the idea of death and being alone and losing people,' but it's also about finding people," she says. "I feel like it's something that we all think about all the time, but it's not something we all talk about. I don't know if people get anything from it, but I'm not trying to create a kind of cathartic experience for anyone; it just happens to be the things I write about."

Olsen says the way she writes music has changed, because the way she listens to music has changed.

"I would listen to these songs and be like, 'Why are these people always talking about love?' They're just so disappointed and so lonely, it's ridiculous," she says. "And then I would listen to it again, and the more you live, the more that these simple thoughts cut deeper. You have more experiences with people and more experiences in general, with your friendships changing; I think that I've developed a different perspective on writing songs on stuff like that and embracing it. I think that's why I tend to obsess over it."

Mad Men's ad guru steps into the director's chair with God's Pocket

Interview. John Slattery's dark comedy about a South Philadelphia truck thief features Philip Seymour Hoffman in one of his last roles

MATT PRIGGE

Metro World News in New York City

John Slattery has spent much of his career playing authority figures, so it makes sense that he would one day become one. Since 2010, the actor has directed five episodes of Mad Men, all while continuing the role of quip-heavy, silver fox Roger Sterling. Now he's made his feature debut, the very different God's Pocket. It's an adaptation of Pete Dexter's gritty South Philadelphia comic drama about a truck thief (Philip Seymour Hoffman, in one of his last roles) trying to get the money to bury his murdered stepson.

When did you know you wanted to direct?

I don't know when it fully formed as an idea, but I would stand on film sets and have my own opinions, and generally keep them to myself. And then I read this book and it seemed like a movie to me. It took another 10 years to get it fully realized. The idea had time to gestate.

And the visual style is very different from Mad Men.

If you look at Peter Yates, here's a guy who directed The Dresser and The Friends of Eddie Coyle. If you looked at those two movies, I wonder if you'd be able to determine who directed them. The style is determined by the narrative, by the world the story lives in. At least to me. So Mad Men exists in a different world than does God's Pocket, so by necessity, it looks different.

It also neither romanticizes

nor judges the denizens of the neighbourhood.

No one in the place feels sorry for themselves. It isn't the prettiest place on earth, but it isn't the worst. And it isn't without hope. No one walks around hanging their head, thinking how difficult life is. They just get on with it, with a sense of humour.

This wasn't shot in Philadelphia. Did you spend some time there?

I visited those neighbourhoods, including the one that was called Devil's Pocket. But it wasn't necessarily the same visually as it once was. We tried to shoot in Philadelphia, but we couldn't afford it, tax credit-wise, accommodations-wise. So we shot it in Yonkers, New York. It's a great-looking city, though.

Philip Seymour Hoffman was offered the journalist, ultimately played by Richard Jenkins, first. Why the switch? He asked to play Mickey. I offered him the part of Richard Shellburn, and he said, "I like the script, but I want to play Mickey."

Was there a reason?

He didn't really say why. He said later that he was drawn to the simple humanity of the character. I think they all have humanity, at different levels or different kinds. Maybe it was something he hadn't played before. I don't know. He obviously had an emotional connection to the character, which is everything.

He was a producer on this film. What was he like?

He came with ideas, he was inclusive and he put people at ease. He could be intimidating — he's Philip Seymour Hoffman. People would walk in a little nervous at working with him, and he would put them at ease. He was a very smart guy. He knew everything that was happening, knew which takes were better. He was very involved.

John Slattery says God's Pocket was a 10-year project in the making. GETTY IMAGES

Hoop screams: Bieber gets booed at basketball game

Justin Bieber isn't faring well in the court of public opinion, if his attendance at a Los Angeles Clippers game Sunday is any indication. The troubled Canadian pop star showed up court-side with his mother, Pattie Mallette, to celebrate Mother's Day watching game four of the NBA playoffs, and the other fans in attendance apparently didn't think that was a great idea, according to E! News. "The entire place booed him when Staples Center cameras put him on the Jumbotron," a source says.

You are Clooney-ly invited to mingle with models rather than mama

Woof, I don't envy George Clooney's friends. They had a terrible choice to make on Sunday: Spend the day with their moms for Mother's Day, or slip away to attend George Clooney and Amal Alamuddin's engagement party. On the one hand, a glittering group of A-listers; on the other, your mother realizing you'd rather hang out with George Clooney than her. Among those who chose the Cloon were supermodel Cindy Crawford, who co-hosted the event at her Malibu restaurant Café Habana, according to the Daily Mail. Crawford is a longtime Clooney pal and she and her husband Rande Gerber often double-date with Clooney and his arm candy du jour. Other guests included Bono,

Community's cast of comedians. HANDOUT

Community doesn't make the cut for a sixth season

MELINDA
TAUB

Metro World News

The drama behind the scenes on beleaguered NBC sitcom Community was always nearly as compelling as the jokes onscreen. Perennially low-rated, Community faced cancellation every year for its five seasons. Now the scrappy little show that could finally can't: NBC gave it the axe last week.

The show's obsessive fans won't give up at such a minor setback, however. Fans have already begun petitioning production company Sony to shop Community to other networks.

But the plan won't work unless the most important fan of all, creator/showrunner Dan Harmon, is onboard, and he sounds decidedly unenthused.

"[W]hen Sony called me on Friday with the news, there was brief discussion at the end of the call about the concept of the show living elsewhere, and I was definitely in the 'eh' column," he writes on his blog.

"For a million reasons, some selfish, some creative, one logistic, five sexual, three racist (in a good way) and, oddly, nine isometric."

Solange Knowles GETTY IMAGES

She may be young, but she's ready to throw down

In an exclusive video from TMZ.com, you can see Beyoncé's sister, Solange Knowles, viciously attacking Jay-Z in an elevator after the Met Ball. A man who appears to be Jay-Z's bodyguard holds the swinging and kicking Knowles back, but she makes contact with the Hova at least three times. For her part, Beyoncé just kind of stands there.

The video was taken by a surveillance camera in the elevator of the Standard Hotel after the big gala on May 4th during an after party. As TMZ.com points out, the bodyguard stops the elevator at one point, probably in hopes of keeping this private affair private.

Too late.

Looks can be deceiving — even when it comes to boredom

Why do we get bored?
One professor weighs in

KIERON MONKS

Metro World News in New York City

You might think it's your fault you're dozing off in a classroom or office, but that's not always the case.

There are clear categories of boredom triggered by one's environment, says pioneering researcher Dr. Thomas Goetz from the University of Konstanz in Germany (see sidebar).

What is the most common misconception about boredom?

It's important to recognize the different types, and clearly define the differences.

You say apathetic boredom is the worst — how bad can it get?

The problem is that it makes every experience negative and the potential for arousal is low. You can't do anything against this state and it can become a big problem related to depression.

What puts us at risk?

Some people tend to a specific state but only to a small degree; each experience is based on situations. It's important that people recognize the forms. Often the problem is a lack of freedom, such as at school. Teachers should be aware and try to find individualized methods that give students choice.

Is there a risk that teaching

Researchers believe there are five types of boredom. ISTOCK boredom could cause more boredom?

There is an argument from anxiety research that awareness increases the problem, but in this case it is about knowing and realizing, and this goes hand in hand with resolving it.

What follow-up research is needed?

We didn't measure the effects. We need diagnostic instruments to show the experiences of boredom.

Types of boredom

Here are the various categories.

- Indifferent boredom. A relaxing, possibly positive type — "a general indifference to, and withdrawal from, the external world."

- Calibrating boredom. Wandering thoughts — "general openness to behaviours aimed at changing the situation."

- Searching boredom. "Actively seeking out specific ways of minimizing feelings of boredom."

- Reactant boredom. Causes sufferers "to leave the boredom-inducing situation and avoid those responsible for this situation (e.g., teachers)."

- Apathetic boredom. Impossible to break from this mode — "dangerous, similar to depression."

You can transform the future for brain tumour patients and survivors.

Lamb gets a different type of R & R courtesy of raspberry and rosemary

Health Solutions

Mary had a little lamb

NUTRI-BITES
Theresa Albert
DHN, RNCP
myfriendinfood.com

Mary had a little lamb, because the meat is moist and rich and satisfying, and a little lamb is all you need. Bahaha. OK, that's enough.

Delicious lamb is raised in Canada and is generally a local, grass-fed food.

That said, if you don't check the label, you are more than likely enjoying an imported product from New Zealand.

Lamb leg or rump can be a little higher in fat and calories but it has all of the benefits of other animal meats like protein, B12 and zinc.

Lamb chops are generally a quick-cooking, leaner option and a nice change.

There is a slightly gamey flavour to lamb that can be an acquired taste but chops are generally milder. For newbies, sweet flavours like mint or raspberry are great compliments to minimize the grassiness.

The trick for cooking lamb chops is to be sure to preheat the grill to a very high heat but to only cook each chop for three or four minutes per side.

The protein is delicate and the meat is thin, so chops don't need much attention to be tender and delicious.

Let the chops rest for a few minutes before serving so that all of the juices remain within the meat.

Get 'em while they're grilled

1. In skillet over medium-high, heat oil until lightly smoking.

Ingredients

- 3 tbsp sesame oil
- 2 tsp minced garlic
- 1 tsp minced fresh ginger
- 2 tbsp chopped canned black beans
- 2 tsp dark miso
- 2 tbsp minced red onion
- 1 tbsp each minced Peppadew and jalapeno peppers
- 1 tbsp sliced scallions
- 1 tbsp chopped fresh cilantro
- 3 tbsp oyster sauce
- 2 tbsp soy sauce
- 2 tsp sugar
- 1/4 cup sake
- 1/4 cup water, plus 1 tbsp, divided
- 2 tbsp orange juice
- 1 tbsp cornstarch
- 3 dozen oysters

Add garlic and sauté 1 minute. Add ginger, then sauté another minute. Add black beans, miso, red onion, Peppadews, jalapenos, scallions and cilantro. Sauté 1 minute, then stir in the oyster sauce, soy sauce, sugar, sake, 1/4 cup of water and orange juice. Bring to a boil, then simmer for 2 minutes.

2. In glass, stir cornstarch and remaining 1 tablespoon of water. Stir into the sauce and cook, stirring, for another minute. The sauce will be very thick and chunky. Set aside.

3. Heat the grill to high.

4. Shuck the oysters, pouring off any extra juice and leaving the oyster in the bottom half of the shell. Top each oyster with 1 teaspoon of the sauce. Set the oysters directly on the grill grates and cook for about 30 seconds, or until just barely heated. Use tongs to carefully transfer the oysters (the shells will be hot) to a platter. Serve immediately. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The slump is over for Max Pacioretty.

Game 7 is on Wednesday night in Boston.

Pacioretty, who had only one assist in the first five games, scored and set up Thomas Vanek's goal in the second period. Lars Eller scored in the first for Montreal and Vanek added his second of the game into an empty net with 3:56 left in regulation time.

"I was just waiting for my time to pitch in offensively," said Pacioretty. "Obviously you wanted it to happen more often in the playoffs, but it's two do-or-die games where I've scored a goal so I feel confident that I'm helping the team."

"You want to feel you're helping the team win and I think I did that tonight."

Rookie Nathan Beaulieu, the Canadiens' 2011 first-round draft pick who was given a surprise start by coach Michel Therrien, picked up an assist in his first NHL playoff game and was plus-2.

"I never played at a pace like that before," the 21-year-old said.

"It was incredible. It was good to get the first period under my belt and I felt I settled down after that."

The Canadiens repeated the scenario of their 2011 first-round series against the Bruins, winning at home to force a Game 7. That year, they lost the decisive game in overtime.

Rush Vs. Roughnecks

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

You have started many new things in recent weeks but you will soon have to choose which one or two projects you are going to focus on. There's no point trying to do it all.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

With the Sun moving through your birth sign you are eager to start something new. Don't wait for Lady Luck to drop opportunities into your lap — get out there and create them yourself.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Everyone has daydreams but the power of your imaginings could lead you in some unusual directions. Try to keep a grip on reality today, otherwise your mind could float away!

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Work hard but leave yourself time for fun too. Friends will come by when you least expect it and you should be ready to drop what you are doing and make them feel welcome.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You will be extraordinarily assertive on the work front, but you could also annoy people who think you are trying to usurp their position. You must stay on good terms with those in positions of power.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You will find that a number of questions you have been asking over the past few weeks will answer themselves. Whether or not the answers are to your liking, at least you will know what it all means.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Fears you thought had been put behind you will return in unexpected ways. However, if you face up to those fears and deal with them bravely the planets indicate this will be the very last time they bother you.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

The next few days are mainly about relationships. Challenges must be dealt with and certain people must be told in no uncertain terms that you are the boss. Compromise is possible, but only after you establish your authority.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

If you need to make changes in your working environment now is the time. Some of your colleagues won't like what you do but that's too bad. Either they fit in with your plans or they move out.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

This is one of the best times of the year for you and you really should be making the most of it. Most things are possible, so set your sights high and make greatness your goal.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

A difference of opinion with a friend or family member could get out of hand, so promise yourself no matter what is said you won't overreact. Soon all will be forgotten.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Travel is on the cards but so are hold-ups and unexpected diversions. Wherever you end up you'll have a lot of fun, so don't stay home — get out into the world. SALLY BROMPTON
